Extinction is not a game

Dear President Macron,

The players don't need you. The planet does.

By the time you're done watching France's semi-final, the equivalent of 1,000 football fields of primary tropical forests will be destroyed.

As the leader of the so-called "High Ambition Coalition for Nature and People" you need to do your part to ensure COP15 delivers a strong deal based on science that will:

- Protect at least half the planet by 2030;
- Respect and protect the human rights of Earth's defenders;
- Make sure that France and the European Union pay their fair share of the financial resources that we need to stop biodiversity loss.

In the battle to save our planet,
we're already in extra time.
